Problem Statement

Required an Application for Sports Betting

Client required an application where users can bet on their favorite sports teams and compete to win amazing prizes. Players should be able to make picks against real spreads, lines and totals for both major league and college sports.

CIS Solution

Developed an Optimized Solution

We developed an optimized database structure to save each player's detail from the API. We also employed low level cache techniques. Apart from the normal betting there is a daily fantasy part in which users can choose their players, create a draft and win cash prizes. This is a completely innovative game in which user instead of selecting player can select entire team and draft their roasters.

Positive Outcome

There are various exciting offers for the users to keep them engaged. More and more users are showing interest in this game as it is very user friendly and is helping them to win a lot of cash prizes.
